Mrs. Woodward Is Called To Reward Sunday

Services To Be Held
On Tuesday From Chapel

The funeral services for Mrs. Alice Maria Woodward, who was called to the beyond on Sunday, will be held at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon from Memory Chapel under the auspices of the Christian Science Society in Placerville, of which she was a member.

Following the rites, there will be cremation at East Lawn Mausoleum, in Sacramento. The ashes will be interred at Truckee beside the grave of her husband.

Mrs. Woodward passed on at the home of her only daughter, Mrs. Jay E. Fox on Coloma street in this city.

A native of Missouri, she came West with her parents in early life and lived in Nevada and near Truckee, coming to Placerville in 1899. Her husband, John Woodward, passed on several years ago. Mrs. Woodward was aged 78.

Mrs. Woodward leaves to mourn her passing the daughter, Mrs. Fox, and two sons, James S. Woodward of Placerville; and John W. Woodward, at Oakland.

Brothers and sisters are Mrs. Nan Younger of Portland; Mrs. Ella Cothrin of Crystal Springs; Mrs. R. N. Day of Placerville; Mrs. Charles Draper of Ione; Mrs. Will Euer of White Rock; Mrs. Alvin Sprague of Oakland; Mrs. Emma Bryan of Angles Camp; and John Dodson of Carson City; and R. L. Dodson and Art Dodson of Latrobe. One great-grandchild, James Veerkamp; and the following grandchildren also mourn her passing, James S. Woodward, Jr., Robert, June and Jack Woodward; Woodward Fox and Mrs. Alice Woodward Veerkamp.

Aged Resident At Shingle Summoned

Mrs. Lucy Kilo Martinez, 80, a native of Michigan Bar and a resident of near Shingle Spring since early life, passed away at her home there early Monday morning.

She is survived by her husband, George Martinez, who had been caring for her during a serious illness covering the past four years.

The funeral services will be on Wednesday afternoon from her late residence under the direction of the Dillinger mortuary, the Rev. Father T. J. Hayes officiating. Burial will be at Shingle.

Last Rites Monday For H. V. Caldwell

Funeral services were held on Monday afternoon from Memory Chapel for Hugh Vernon Caldwell, 80, who died at his residence in this city on Sunday.

The service was conducted by Rev. John Barrett. Interment was at Middletown cemetery.

Mr. Caldwell was a native of Tuolumne County and had made his home in this community about 20 years. He is survived by a son, Roy A. Caldwell of Long Beach; one sister, Mrs. Ida Love of Vista, California and one brother, Charles A. Caldwell of Long Beach.

A certificate filed with the county recorder reveals the marriage on January 21 of Roney Puthuff, 24, and Sula Amos, 26, before the Rev. Harold Morehouse.

FLOOD FLASHES

By UNITED PRESS

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—United States snow flurries and rain during the next 24 hours in flood stricken areas of 11 states.

LOUISVILLE—Virtualy no power or lights. 150,000, almost half of the population, homeless or marooned. Choked sewers bring threat of typhoid. All persons ordered inoculated.

CINCINNATI—Fire and flood brings city worst disaster in history. One-fourth of city unattended and 50,000 homeless. Fire in industrial district causes $2,000,000 damage. Ohio River at 78.3 feet, an all-time high. Electricity available only to public buildings, newspapers and radio stations.

FRANKFORT, Ky.—Evacuation of 2800 convicts in state reformatory starts. Stockade constructed on high ground to house prisoners.

PORTSMOUTH, O.—Forty-three thousand residents live in one-fifth of city's normal area. Remainder of city under water. National guardsmen ordered to shoot to kill looters. Five thousand refugees expected to be removed by special trains because of overcrowding.

EVANSVILLE, Ind.—Twenty-six southern Indiana counties under martial law. Two-thirds of Evansville is flooded. 70,000 homeless in Indiana.

PITTSBURGH—Allegheny and the Monongahela River rise three-tenths of a foot hourly. Water flooding basements fringing the "Golden Triangle."

$50,000,000 IN LIVESTOCK, CROP LOSS IN STATE

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—Rising temperatures brought relief to most sections of California and other western states today and broke a cold spell which was almost unprecedented for its long duration.

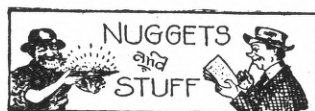

Freezing temperatures, however, left in their wake an estimated $50,000,000 loss to orchardists and other agriculturalists in California. Snow fell in Central California yesterday and lay on the ground in some sections for the first time in years. The state highway patrol reported that the snow was becoming deep on the Ridge Route, the main highway connecting Northern and Southern California, and that if it continued the road may be closed to traffic.

REX, BECHDOLT SHARE HONORS AT MT. LASSEN

MINERAL (UP)—Team standings in the annual Mount Lassen Club ski championship still were to be announced today but top honors for individual performances in the contests yesterday were shared by Ted Rex of the Mount Lassen Ski Club and Carl Bechdolt of the Lake Tahoe Ski Club.

Rex took first place in the Class A jumping event and in the Slalom race. He placed second, also, in the down hill contest.

First place in the Class B event went to David Renner of Tahoe who made jumps of 114 and 118 feet. Walter Mandeville, who made a jump of 123 feet, failed to perform on his second attempt and was scored down on form. Ernest Lillianthal of Mt. Lassen, took third.

Just a bit late, perhaps, but there were several important events commemorated this last week-end. One of them was the discovery of gold 89 years ago at Coloma, and another was the birth, 85 years ago on Saturday, of Mrs. Elizabeth Killough.

Happy birthday to Mrs. Killough.

We haven't the slightest idea what prompted him to say so, but someone stopped us on the street this morning, pointed toward the men and equipment working at the Presbyterian church property, and said: "That's no WPA project, sure."

HOOP LEAGUE OFF TONIGHT IN NEW RACE

The slate in the county basketball league is swept clean again and tonight the clubs start the second half of the league schedule.

Following this, the winner of the second half of the race will meet the high school five, first half winners, for league honors.

Tonight's games start at 7 o'clock at the high school gym and open up with the Snowliners meeting Mosquito. Second tilt of the night sends the high school against the 20-30 quint and the lights will go out after the American Legion and Native Son fives finish up.

Mrs. May Lewright Taken At Bay City

Mrs. May Lewright, wife of Harley Lewright and mother of Harold Le-right, and a native of this county, passed away Monday morning at her home in Oakland. This is according to a message received by Attorney Thomas Maul from the son. The message did not state plans concerning funeral arrangements.

Deer Feed Survey Being Continued

Ranger M. D. Morris returned Monday morning the Pacific district, continuing his survey of deer feed conditions in the game refuge. While in the game refuge on Saturday Ranger Morris left several deposits of an especially mixed feed for the deer and his check-up today is to determine to what extent the deer have eaten the feed.

Desolation Spreads Into Eleven States; Disease Adds To Disaster Horror

37 Known Dead; Hundreds Missing; Property
Loss Climbs To Untold Millions
As Waters Hit Record Crests

By UNITED PRESS

Relief forces, operating on a wartime basis, were mobilized along an 1800-mile front today to combat illness and terror among 458,000 refugees in the flood ravaged Ohio and Trans-Mississippi River Valleys.

Waters rose to their highest crests in history.

Thirty-seven were known dead. Hundreds were missing.

Property damage mounted into uncounted millions.

President Roosevelt placed all resources of the government at the disposal of 11 states ravaged by the swollen streams.

Typhoid, diptheria, dysentery and pneumonia added to the terror of homeless men, women and children.

FLOOD RELIEF FUNDS NEEDED

County Red Cross Has Appeal For Aid
For Midwest

WASHINGTON (UP)—The American Red Cross today doubled its appeal for flood rescue funds, calling upon the nation to contribute $4,000,000 to be spent in the great emergency. In addition the Red Cross is spending $1,000,000 of its reserve funds for disaster work.

Saturday the Red Cross asked for $2,000,000 in contributions.

El Dorado County was given its opportunity to help in the relief of the flood-stricken Ohio and Mississippi Valley communities when a telegram was received late Saturday by the Red Cross chapter from Cary T. Grayson, national chairman.

Reporting at that hour (Saturday) that 270,000 were homeless in a raging blizzard with freezing weather and immediate need for relief to halt disease, Chairman Grayson called on El Dorado County chapter for a minimum of $80 and a continuing solicitation of additional funds.

Chapter Chairman M. T. Kelly says there will be no solicitation. Contributions will be appreciatively received and forwarded.

Those wishing to contribute may leave their contributions with Mrs. Elizabeth Sayers, county welfare officer; with Mrs. Edwin Smith, chapter secretary; with the chapter chairman or at the Bank of America.

"We have several contributions already from persons who have heard over the radio or have read in the metropolitan papers of the great distress," Mr. Kelly said Monday morning.

From Memphis, Tennessee to Cincinnati, Ohio, there was desolation.

Frantic appeals were broadcast for boats, men and dollars to fight disease, aid refugees and rescue those whose homes are in the path of the onrushing waters.

Thirty-five thousand WPA workers were assigned to assist coast guardsmen, national guardsmen and volunteer relief agencies. Hundreds of American Red Cross workers were in the field. The organization asked the nation to contribute $4,000,000 for relief.

These states were stricken: Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, West Virginia, Tennessee, Louisiana, Missouri, Arkansas, Illinois, Mississippi, and Pennsylvania.

Deaths by states: Ohio, 9; West Virginia, 6; Kentucky, 4; Illinois, 1; Indiana, 2; Pennsylvania, 1; and the mid-south basin of Arkansas, Missouri, Tennessee and Mississippi, 14.

Homeless by states (estimated): Arkansas, 20,000; West Virginia, 20,000; Pennsylvania, 250; Indiana, 70,000; Kentucky, 200,000; Illinois, 30,000; Ohio, 100,000; Tennessee, 90,000; Missouri, 1,000; Mississippi, 1,000; Louisiana, 1,000. Total 454,250.

These cities and towns were wholly or partially inundated:

Louisville, Kentucky; Cincinnati, Ohio; Evansville, Indiana; Paducah, Kentucky; Wheeling, West Virginia; Pittsburgh, Jeffersonville, Kentucky; Portsmouth, Ohio; Marietta, Ohio; Frankfort, Kentucky; Zanesville, O.; Ironton, Ohio; Coshocton, Ohio; McConnellsville, Ohio; Parkersburg, W. Virginia; Huntington, West Virginia; Lawrenceburg, Indiana; Aurora, Indiana; Shawneetown, Illinois; Cairo, Illinois; Metropolis, Illinois; Caruthersville, Missouri; Jackson, Mississippi; Natchez, Mississippi; Concordia and Catahoula Parishes, Louisiana; Richards Landing, Tennessee; Truman, Arkansas; Monette, Arkansas; Lake City, Arkansas; Clarksville, Tennessee; Eddyville, Kentucky; and many smaller towns with which communication was impossible.

Looting broke out in flood stricken towns and cities. Police were powerless to aid refugees and maintain law and order. National guardsmen were ordered to "shoot to kill."

Martial law or its equivalent was declared along a front reaching from Cincinnati to Cairo, Illinois, on both sides of the Ohio River.

Rain, snow and sleet added to suffering and to the flood menace.

City taxes are now due and payable and will become delinquent at the close of business on Monday, January 25, 1937.

Disaster We Can't Imagine

The People of the lower Ohio and central Mississippi Valleys are in the midst of terror and suffering such as few of us can imagine.

The mere routine radio and newspaper reports of the disaster have stirred us all and have resulted in a number of contributions to the El Dorado County Chapter of the Red Cross, for forwarding to the flood relief headquarters.

El Dorado County Red Cross chapter has been asked for a minimum of $50 as a first request. Because of the widespread suffering, there undoubtedly will be additional requests for financial assistance.

Only those who have been through such a disaster can fully appreciate what is taking place. We who have been so fortunate as to have escaped such misfortune can demonstrate our appreciation by subscribing to the flood relief fund.

PARADE OF SPORTS

By HENRY McLEMORE
(United Press Staff Writer)

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP)—As one who has followed the baseball players' national golf tournament, I wish to state flatly, firmly, loudly, and unequivocally that alchemists will be creating gold from second hand canary bird cages before a baseball player wins any of our major golf championships.

In fact, I want to go even further, and say that gold from just the doors of used golf clubs in their hands, I know the threats were as empty as a leaky rain barrel in the Sahara. If they should carry out their threats to depend on golf for a livelihood, however, I can think of no better way to get rich in a hurry than have the standing room concession in the poor house. For the boys will be packed in deeper than Brooklyn pitchers in the bull pen during a double-header.

Until I watched this tournament I really believed many of our famous baseball players meant it when they threatened to quit the diamond for the fairway if their salary demands were not met. Now, having seen them with golf clubs in their hands, I know the threats were as empty as a leaky rain barrel in the Sahara. If they should carry out their threats to depend on golf for a livelihood, however, I can think of no better way to get rich in a hurry than have the standing room concession in the poor house. For the boys will be packed in deeper than Brooklyn pitchers in the bull pen during a double-header.

Here are thumb nail descriptions of the golf games of some of the noted baseball players who contested for the Powell Crosley Cup:

Jimmy Foss—The best thing about his game is the 25-cent cigar he smokes from tee to green.

Heinie Manush—I wouldn't swear as to what his form is like, as the only times I have seen him he was deep in the woods and obscured by a network of blackberry bushes, palm fronds, frightened caddies and a cloud of pale, blue air of his own creation.

Lyn Lary—Very popular with the gamblers because they like to follow him around and bet even money that either Lary or the ball will wear out before the green is reached.

Lloyd Waner—Hits a long ball but doesn't get any distance, is strictly a right field, or slice hitter.

Bill Cissell—Has never hit a ball he personally couldn't handle at shortstop. Plays all of his shots as if making sacrifice hits. Has had three offers from the United States forestry service because of expertness at tree blazing.

Bill Swift—Is often ruled off courses because he is on so many places that he is frequently mistaken for a five-some, and fivesomes are illegal.

John Cooney—Only made two er-

Soviet Economist
Murdered In Paris

PARIS (AP)—The entire secret service was assigned today to help the police solve the murder of the Soviet economist Dmitri Navachine, found shot at Prince's Gate in the Bois de Boulogne, in the aristocratic west end of Paris. The crime was considered important because there was a suspicion that it might be in some way connected with the terrorist trial now going on in Moscow.

Dr. L. J. Anderson spent the weekend at Vallejo visiting his parents, who have been ill recently but are now recovering.

DUDLEY TAKES SACRAMENTO IN 15 UNDER PAR

SACRAMENTO (UP)—Golf experts thumbed their record books today trying to find a performance that might match that of the veteran Ed Dudley, Georgia and Pennsylvania pro, who shattered par by 15 strokes in winning the $3,000 Sacramento open tournament here with a total of 273.

There were two lower scores credited in competitive play, one to Lawson Little in the Canadian open last year and the other to "Wild Bill" Mehlhorn in a Texas even 10 years back, but each was on a short course.

The Book-Mark

By WIBORADE

What has become of our copy of "Gone With the Wind?" After a thorough search we remember that A. borrowed it. She let a friend take it overnight who gave it by mistake (it is always by mistake) to a friend who left for New York the following day. Our copy of "The Seven Pillars of Wisdom" is missing. A neighbor borrowed it to read to her husband who was in bed with a cold. The husband has been restored to health, we notice, but our book has not been restored to its shelf. Some old worthy said "When you buy a book be shy of showing it." Is he telling us? We would say that a library should be something to conceal and gloat over as a cellar used to be in prohibition days.

When a borrower comes along why cannot we learn to say no in a tone of irrevocable finality? What reward do we reap for being lenders, sometimes grudgingly, we must admit? B. borrowed our copy of Shakespeare's "Sonnets," not to read them, bless you no, but because the binding fitted in with the new "decor" of her apartment. Our copy of "The Scarlet Letter" was taken by mistake (insidious word) to the Philippine Islands by C. Moving about from one military post to another she lost the book. We have discovered since that it was a first edition. Where is our copy of Mark Twain's "Roughing It" that we insisted D. must take with? Where is our morocco bound "David Copperfield?" Where are the snows of yesterday?

Borrowers are not all of one kind. There is your lean-souled creature who never buys a book if he can help it. Let him but know that you have bought a book, in fact, you do not have to let him know, as he seems to be cannily endowed with the knowledge of the very moment you enter your door with a new book under your arm. In a trice he is there, ready to persecute you, to fasten his talons upon you, to give you no peace until you lend him the book. We know that this borrower is headed straight for that circle of Dante's "Inferno" where the greedy flounder in mud and mire. We consign him there without a qualm.

Another type of borrower, of the feminine gender, borrows on general principles. It is as natural for her to borrow as it is for a dog to bark or a cat to meow. Her tastes are catholic and all-embracing. With airy unconcern, she picks up your latest cook book, your copy of "The Wastelands" or a ponderous tome on Economics left by someone on your table. When you suggest that she join a library she tells you that she cannot be bothered, that her friends are willing to keep her supplied with reading matter. In her case there is only one thing to do (provided you see her coming) clear your table of all that you value and have a supply of old text books or discarded mystery stories lying around. She has no sense of discrimination and whatever takes its place in her mental make-up, will be no wiser.

A third class of borrowers is made up of those subtle, insinuating creatures who, if you had but the opportunity to explore their anatomy, would reveal hidden horns and hooves. With seductive grace and flattering unctious they bow to your superior judgment; with suave tones they laud your exquisite taste. In their hands you are so much soft wax. What you have is theirs for the asking and, nine times out of ten, will remain theirs forevermore.

There is the borrower who helps himself without so much as a by-your-leave. He always manages to

HOW IT BEGAN

By Paul E. Berdanier

SMELLING SALTS

RAYMOND MINDERER, 17th CENTURY MEDICAL ADVISOR TO THE GERMAN FUGGERS (BANKERS), INVENTED AN INVIGORATING COMPOUND OF DISTILLED VINEGAR AND CRUDE HARTSHORN (AMMONIA), WHICH HE CALLED "SPRITUS MINDERERI"—THE BEGINNING OF MODERN "SMELLING SALTS."

SAVINGS BANKS

IN 1810 REV. HENRY DUNCAN, PARISH MINISTER OF THE VILLAGE OF RUTHWELL, DUMFRIESSHIRE, SCOTLAND, ESTABLISHED A BANK TO ACCEPT SMALL DEPOSITS, ON WHICH CUMULATIVE INTEREST WAS PAID. THIS ENTERPRISE WAS THE FIRST MODERN SAVINGS BANK.

call when you are out and takes advantage of any unsuspecting member of the household by saying that he will "just browse around" and wait until you return. Be browses long enough to seize his plunder but he is careful never to wait. When you ask him to return what he borrowed, he assumes an air of injured innocence and disclaims any knowledge of what you are talking about.

We must not omit to mention the compensatory borrower. We are told that he exists but we have had no dealings with him. We can boast of no great mind who scatters the bounties of his grace by means of marginalia and valuable annotations in our volumes. If any of our books are returned, they are dog-eared, thumb-marked, and often strewn with crumbs and stained with the jam of the borrower's breakfast. We cannot even boast of an under collection. All that our friends have ever left are a decrepit copy of the "Rubaiyat" and

"The Rhymes of a Red Cross Man" that we shall lose no time in sending to the Seaman's library.

But what are these books that have fallen in back of this shelf? As we are alive, if this isn't Hardy's "Return of the Native" that we borrowed from A. last summer? And here are B's two volumes of "The Magic Mountain" borrowed at the same time! And we were so sure that we had returned them. We utter a few unprintable expletives. Where is that wrapping paper? Where is the string? Alas, that we cannot bask in our feeling of righteous indignation that we had worked up to such a jolly pitch. We must eat humble pie, instead.

He flew at once to Washington to confer with government officials on his plans for operating the Hindenburg, and its sister ship, the LZ-130, between the United States and Germany next Spring and Summer, on a regular schedule.

You'll Attract Attention With a Chic Get-up

By JACQUELINE HUNT

"I KNOW that I am not pretty, but my features are not really bad and I dress fairly well. What can I do to look more attractive—to make people notice me? I am tired of being a wall-flower."

MISS HUNT

So many girls have asked this question or similar questions, that the problem should be discussed here. You may have fairly good features, nice clothes and intelligence and still fail to put yourself across. What can you do about it? A lot.

If you can afford it, you can go to beauty experts for help with your make-up, your coiffure and your clothes, but the best thing for you to do is to study yourself point by point and experiment until you find out for yourself the things that will give you a smart and well-groomed appearance, if not a beautiful one.

First, let's peep into your mirror and see what is wrong—or at least not quite right. Do your eyebrows have a clean-cut, definite line? Neat eyebrows can do a surprising lot to dramatize your face and to enhance bright, friendly eyes.

Pluck away the stray hairs that would spoil the nicest line of your eyebrows, then brush them with a clean mascara brush and a little oil to train them to lie flat and orderly. Darken them a little if they need it and extend the outer corners by tracing over the entire brow and carrying the pencil line just a little beyond if they tend to stop short.

Try a new coiffure, even if it isn't much different from the one you have always worn. This should be planned for you by an expert, who will study the lines of your face and head before he starts to snip.

The loveliest coiffures of the season call for hair that is fairly long, thinned enough to make it hug the contour of your head in the back and swept upward and back from the front into loose, smooth curls that you can arrange yourself. There are few waves, although sometimes the upswept hair drops forward on the forehead in soft rolls or turns back in a modified pompadour.

Once you find the new style of hairdress that appeals to you and have a permanent wave if you need one, you will find that your hair is easy to care for. Just brush with more vigor than ever, shampoo regularly and use a good tonic if your hair tends to be too dry or over-oily. To set the curls, simply brush the ends over your finger and pin in place with tiny hair-pins.

Pay stricter attention to the details of your grooming. Whether you need a little or a lot to spend for your clothes, see if you are spending your money as wisely as you should. One perfectly fitted dress, if becoming and made of excellent material, is worth two or three cheaper dresses that you buy because they appeal to you at the moment. And a few beautifully tailored things will make your whole appearance more distinctive.

See to it that your dresses and suits are always pressed and that any lingerie touches are immaculate. See that the seams in your hose are straight and that there are no runs or pulled places.
